Methodist Youth Construct Building in Costa Rica

Dean McDonald had the program last week. He presented a slide show of a Methodist youth group constructing a large multi-purpose church building for a small village in Costa Rica. The group, consisting of 11 adults and 11 youth ranging in ages from 12-19, worked in a small community called Pele. Pele is surrounded by a pineapple plantation owned by the Dole Food Company. Work on the building entailed mixing concrete, bathroom plumbing, and pouring the foundation for the building. The cost for sending the group to Costa Rica was approximately $29,000 which was raised by sponsoring a softball tournament and a silent auction. Dean said they were already planning for next year's trip.
