Muslims believe turning good into something better is human; turning evil into good is divine.

America Offers Opportunity for Those Who Work Hard and Follow Their Dreams

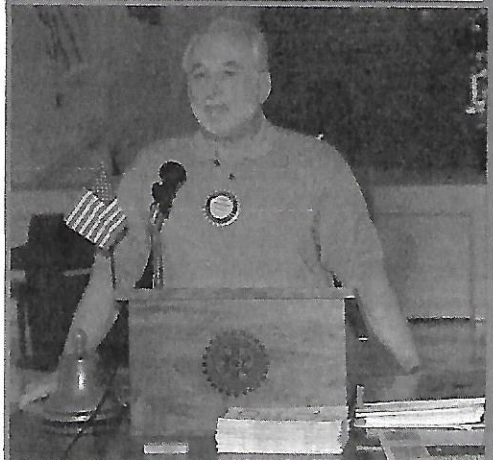

Dave Lindsay had the program last week. His guest speaker was John Hamad, a local realtor and one of Carteret County's most resourceful businessmen. John immigrated to this county from Jerusalem with empty pockets, but within a few year, thanks to his entrepreneur skills, he had amassed a modest fortune. "I give all the credit to this country. Where else but America could a penniless immigrant go into business without a dime in his pocket." John may not have has two nickles to rub together, but he has something more valuable; he had the courage, business acumen, and the will to succeed. And succeed he did...beyond his wildest dreams. "I owe it all to this wonderful country."

John said, "Being a Muslim, I believe God will bless you if you walk humbly, love mercy, and treat others as you want to be treated. There are 1.3 billion Muslims in the world. Only one percent are terrorists. My religion speaks for peace, hope, love and prosperity, the same as Christianity."
