Kurt Rogerson Discusses the Critical Housing Shortage in Carteret County

According to Real Estate Broker Kurt Rogerson, there is a critical housing shortage in Carteret County. Newcomers to Carteret County cannot find affordable places to live. Contractors have been under building for about 15 years. After the housing market tanked in 2007-08, home builders have never gotten back to the rate they were building before. Currently, houses in Carteret County sell in six days or less. So, a home buyer must make a quick decision to buy or the house will be sold while the buyer is making up his/her mind. If a buyer must sleep on it, he may not sleep in it. On the plus side, homeowners are building up huge amounts of equity, which is great for borrowing from a bank. Does this portend a market crash? I think not. The housing market is stable at this time.
