Bob Lowery

Carteret County Speedway A Racer's Paradise

Rotary Guest Speaker Bob Lowery said The Carteret County Speedway, which opened September 2015, is the vision of previous track owner Bobby Watson. Watson was a renowned Go-Kart promoter and a racer before that.

With a lot of help, which included consultation with "The Last American Hero", racing legend Junior Johnson, the 4/10-mile track took over a decade to build but the dream came to life in the summer of 2015. On Labor Day Weekend in 2015, the former Go-Kart track hosted its first race as the brand-new Carteret County Speedway with Clay Jones claiming the win in a thrilling race.

Carteret County Speedway is more than just a racetrack. For racers and fans, it's a racing paradise. Located just a few miles away from Emerald Isle, North Carolina, the track is also a museum of racing history with memorabilia collected over decades surrounding the speedway.

A Rotary Service Project for 2022?

A Rotary Lending Library to be installed at Rotary Park to complement the Rotary Dog Park stocked with helpful books on how to train and care for man's best friend. Salvation Army could provide the books.
