II Jive Provides Evening of Entertainment and Fun With Songs from the Golden Age of Music

Last week Sonny Geer had the program. His guests were Gayle Mitchener and Ron Maxwell. They are a singing group called the II Jive, who perform music from the golden age built around the jazz and big band styles that were popular during that time. Artists like Rosemary Clooney, Count Basie, Artie Shaw, Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, and many other popular singers of that era.

Ron Maxwell played a smooth guitar and gave a running commentary about each song they performed while Gayle sang in a charming sultry voice that was reminiscent of great torch singers of the early 40s.

This program was a bit different from the usual fare. It brought back memories of yesteryear and made for a relaxing evening that was pure joy.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

Tom Noe has the program tonight. His guest speaker is Craig Lewis, Clerk of Court. Craig said; "I feel honored to be a part of the clerk's office for so many years. The clerk's office, for me, has been home for 35 years. The staff has been great to work with." Lewis, who was born and raised on Harkers Island, first began working at the Clerk of Court's office through a school program called Neighborhood Youth Corp. He was there with the program the summer after graduating from high school when a position opened and Austin hired him for the job.

"When I came in 1972," said Craig, "there were three employees in the criminal division and back then District Court was one or two days a week,"

There are now nine employees in the criminal division staff in court handling court calendars with anywhere from 200 to 400 cases a day.
